

Tasmanian Fungi Festival

Fungal Ecology, Conservation, Management, Identification, Edibility, Survey techniques and much more...

The Tasmanian Fungi Festival, presented by Fungimap and NRM South, is a unique gathering of people who are passionate about fungi. Fungi are a fascinating group of organisms that are often overlooked but play a vital role in our natural world.

The Festival opens on the 26 April and includes:

- The Fungi Conservation and Management Symposium (26-27 April)
- A debate entitled 'Eating wild fungi: Fun or foolhardy?' and the festival dinner (27 April)
- Workshops and forays covering a broad range of fungi topics (28-29 April)

Come along and have all your fungi-related questions answered! For the full program and registration form visit the Fungimap website.

Time: 26-29 April 2012
Where: Old Woolstore Apartment Hotel
Registrations at <http://www.rbg.vic.gov.au/fungimap/tasmanian-fungi-festival-2012>

Early bird registrations for the Symposium close 2 March 2012

For other information contact Biodiversity coordinator, Magali Wright on 6221 6142

